

A Night of Hope!

On Wednesday, February 8, 2012, the High School Peer Group HOPE will conduct a program at Pequannock Valley Middle School for eighth grade students. The evening will begin in the PV Gymnasium with a performance by the professional acting troupe, Creative Interventions, led by Staci Block. This program will deal with issues such as peer pressure, decision-making, and teen issues.

Following the performance by Creative Interventions, students will meet with the high school peer group leaders for small group discussions in the gym. Parents will relocate to the PV Library Media Center to debrief with New Bridge Services. PTHS School Counselor, Julie Azzolino, and PV School Counselor, Nancy Paxton, will also be in attendance to address the students' emotional, social, and academic transition to the high school and the resources available to them at PTHS. We urge parents to attend these informational presentations.

The program will conclude with pizza and refreshments for the students in the PV Cafetorium. Parents can enjoy coffee and refreshments in the library. The program will conclude at approximately 8:15 pm.

We encourage all of our eighth graders to participate in this program. It will help in the transition between eighth and ninth grade and will introduce the students to some good role models at the high school. Every attendee will be entered into a raffle for a prize.

Please fill out the bottom portion of this page. Students must bring it to A Night of Hope! on February 8th. This signed permission slip will serve as his/her raffle ticket to be eligible for the prize drawings.

See you on February 8th!
